Sheriff reports Kiln murder an 'open case'

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said the Janice Ladner murder case is still under investigation even though 18-year-old Charles (Chuck) Depreo has been charged with the crime.

"We still feel someone else could have been involved," the sheriff said. Young Depreo remains jailed at an officially undisclosed location without benefit of bond, the sheriff reported.

Janice Ladner was shot at her Kiln residence sometime on the night of April 7, along with her six-year-old daughter Joy Lynn.

The child fled from the house with a shoulder wound. The house was then burned, along with the body of Mrs. Ladner.

Depreo is a former neighbor of the Ladners in Kiln and was on active duty with the U.S. Navy in Virginia at the time of his arrest, April 23.

At that time, the sheriff said the Ladner child named Depreo as the assailant in the incident.

In the meantime, Ms. Ladner's estranged husband, Earl E. (Buck) Ladner Jr., a former state representative, this month received letters of administration from the Hancock County Chancery Court clerk to handle the Janice Ladner estate.

PINE CANCER - These swellings, located on a common slash pine, are caused by the disease fusiform rust. The fatal disease resembles a common cancer - characterized by a constant "eating away" of the tree's inner cells.

Residential pines affected

Pine tree 'cancer' may devastate 50 percent of Hancock's forests

by DEE KACHLER

Cancer affects many of the world's living species today, and Hancock County pine trees are not immune, with many dying from a "cancerous type reddish growth."

These growths - commonly known as cankers, cankers, galls or swellings - are really a type of "rust" which Hancock County Extension Agent John Smith described as "being able to eat out a pine just like cancer."

Scientifically known as "cromarium" and also called "fusiform rust" in forestry circles, the affliction is a number one killer of pine trees in South Mississippi and presents a serious concern to state and federal forestry agencies.

Dr. Calvin Bey of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Harrison Experimental Forestry office in Gulfport said, "Recent surveys show fusiform incidence in Hancock County is more severe now than was shown in earlier studies."

"As many as 50 percent of the trees on cultivated acreage and plantations may be infected," Bey warned.

"Fusiform rust progresses in a cycle between pine and oak trees," Dr. Bey explained.

Rust-colored fungus-producing spores can kill the pine within three years," he said, "but the oak is left undamaged throughout this process."

The complex fungus that causes fusiform rust is hosted by the green leaves of oak trees. From late February until early April, the growths on already infected pines produce millions of rust-colored spores which are carried by the air to oak leaves, explained Dr. Charles Walkinshaw, Forestry Service plant pathologist.

Walkinshaw said the spores then germinate on oak trees, causing only slight infections to the leaves, and are then passed again through the air to new growth on slash and loblolly pines, both of which are prevalent on the Coast.

Within three years, swelling occurs on the limbs or trunk, causing the trees' death.

Annual pulpwood losses caused by the disease are estimated at $28 million in the Southern states.

This figure soars to more than $150 million if the loss of finished wood products is considered, recent Forest Service publication indicate.

Salvation of slash pines, the most abundant source of pulpwood in Hancock County, "is a commitment for us," said Ted Roland, biological lab technician at the Forestry office.

"It is a long range project for us to try to determine, and one day control, the reasons for susceptibility of slash pines to this disease - some get it and others don't," he said.

Safety laws enforced on Hancock waterways

by ELLIS CUEVAS

"We work primarily for prevention of boating accidents, not for the apprehension of water safety violators," stated Mississippi Water Safety Patrolman Ronald Ladner.

"With schools out and summer vacations here, more and more boats are using the rivers, lakes and streams in Mississippi - we have to issue citations when water safety rules are violated," added his colleague, Patrolman Mac Thomas.

On a routine patrol in Jourdan River, Bayou La Croix and Rotten Bayou last Thursday, Patrolmen Ladner and Thomas found boat operators more familiar with state boating regulations than they were on a similar patrol in May of 1975.

During the routine patrol in 1975, three boats were checked and in each case the operator had to be cited for improper safety equipment or not being properly registered.

On this year's inspection trip, more boats were checked than in 1975 and all checked were within the state's regulations.

Patrolman Ladner, who was also on the 1975 trip, commented, "There are not as many violations in Hancock County as when I first started working the county, but we do still have to issue tickets for violations and the violators have to appear before a Justice Court judge."

What are the state requirements to operate a boat in Mississippi waters? First, the boat must be registered, and the registration slip must be kept in the boat. (Your check or money order number must also be recorded on the back of this registration slip.)

The regulation also includes vessels with motors below ten horsepower.

A two-year registration costs $2.50, and the registration forms can be obtained from many places including courthouses and sporting goods stores.

Hancock crackdown promised

Road accidents soar to alarming rate

By EDGAR PEREZ

The 1978 automobile accident rate on Hancock County roads through June 14 indicates we are wrecking cars on those roads at double the rate of last year," Sheriff Sylvan Ladner warns.

"The accident rate on county roads has steadily increased over the last three years, but these latest figures on this year's accidents are startling," the sheriff continued.

"We are urging all drivers in the county to be especially careful during these next few summer months, when the possibility of children being involved in accidents is much higher with school out," the sheriff added.

"And we want everyone to be aware that increased enforcement of traffic laws can be expected until we can bring down this ridiculous accident rate," the sheriff further warned.

Sheriff Ladner Friday signed documents which will result in his department receiving two new squad cars especially designed for traffic enforcement.

The vehicles will be financed 50 percent by the state through the South Mississippi Planning and Development District.

The new cars will also be equipped with radar which, under state law, is allowable for use by sheriff's departments in counties with a population of more than 2,000.

Statistics released by the sheriff

Friday show some 60 accidents have occurred on county roads since the beginning of this year, with resulting injury to 19 persons.

"That compares with a total of 88 accidents on county roads through all of last year," the sheriff exclaimed.

Two persons died in county road accidents last year, the sheriff said, and 31 persons were injured.

Kiwanis move step closer to US-90 signal relief

by ELLIS CUEVAS

The Kiwanis of South Mississippi are continuing efforts to change traffic signal lights at two locations on US-90 in Waveland.

Through the efforts of Waveland Mayor John Longo, investigator Robert Tartavouille of Waveland Police, the Gulf Regional Planning Commission supplied the Kiwanis with a study on the issue to be submitted to Shag Pyron, highway commissioner for the Southern District.

Chairman of the project is Ernest L. Mitchell who said contact has been made with the Highway Commissioner's office and that Kiwanians are awaiting a call from the commissioner to meet with them.

Approximately 100 signatures have already been gathered from Waveland and Bay St. Louis business owners and civic organizations requesting a change on the type of signals at these intersections.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and the Jaycees are all backing the Kiwanians in this project. In January of 1977, the Hancock County Grand Jury, in a letter signed by Milton S. Lafontaine, foreman, requested changes be made in the traffic signals on US Hwy. 90 at Nicholson Avenue and also US-90 at Waveland Avenue.

Chuck Breathitt is president of the South Mississippi Kiwanis.

The study by the Gulf Regional Research Center follows:

"TRAFFIC AND ACCIDENT REPORT FOR THE INTERSECTIONS OF HIGHWAY 90 AND NICHOLSON AVENUE AND HIGHWAY 90 AND WAVELAND AVENUE."

"The city of Waveland faces a severe traffic problem at the intersections of Highway 90 and Nicholson Avenue (Highway 60343) and also Highway 90 and Waveland Avenue. The problem is created by a lack of turning signals at either intersection. The city of Waveland and a large number of public and private organizations feel that it is critical to the safety of the residents of Waveland and Bay St. Louis and also the city's visitors that proper traffic signals be installed at these intersections.

'Worms with teeth' gnawing pecan trees

By DEE KACHLER

Unslightly caterpillars or "web worms", currently infesting pecan and persimmon trees in Hancock County, are not dangerous and can be remedied," according to County Agent John Smith.

Hundreds of these "worms with teeth" are encased in the webbing which usually surrounds the entire leafy end of a branch, Smith said.

Smith applied the "worms with teeth" description to the insects since they actually are moths in their larval stage of growth.

The caterpillars appear during the early summer and fall months, Smith said, and they are now engaged in a yearly ritual of nibbling on only the leaves of pecan and persimmon trees - not the fruit. One method of "ex-punging the nests from the trees is to use a "torch," Smith explained.

"Apply a small amount of kerosene to a rag attached to the end of a pole," he said, "and lightly scorch the web with the flames."

The county agent stressed that flames can easily scorch the leaves unless applied and removed quickly.

A 57 percent solution of Malathion sprayed on the nests is another solution to the caterpillar problem, "but it must be applied before the fall months," Smith concluded.

Zengarling, Ladner wed in double ring nuptials

Our Lady of the Gulf Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for a nuptial mass uniting Alice Louise Zengarling and Clement Lucian Ladner Saturday afternoon, June 10.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bully.

Zengarling of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oreste P. Ladner of Necaise Crossing. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend William J. Kelley, S.V.D.

Arrangements of majestic daisies and white and yellow daisy poms decorated the altar with palms on either side.

Mrs. John McKenna provided music at the organ for the nuptials and accompanied Conrad Mauffray, vocalist, for selections of Sunrise, Sunset, The Wedding Song, and Come Walk the World With Me.

Presentation of gifts was made by the bride's godfather, Mr. Emile Manieri, and Mrs. Manieri.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal gown of peau-de-sole overlaid with chiffon along princess lines. The sculptured bodice featured a high neckline trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls and was accented with an embroidered cameo on English net.

The full length train flowed from the fitted waist. She wore a Juliet cap of Alencon lace, decorated with seed pearls, which held a three-tier fingertip veil of illusion, strewn silk flowers in a random effect and bordered with lace.

She carried a silk nosegay of daisies, lily-of-the-valley, and yellow sweetheart roses with lace and ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was Lisa Zengarling, the bride's sister of Bay St. Louis. Bridesmaids were Marie Ladner, sister of the groom and Tanya Peterson, a niece, both of Necaise Crossing; Marjorie Litchner of Picayune; and Pam Dedeaux of Bay St. Louis.

They wore pale yellow gowns of qulana trimmed with venise lace and topped with chippon capelets, and carried nosegays of daisies with lace and ribbon streamers.

They wore matching daisy hairpieces.

Flower girls were Misses Jennifer Lee of Bay St. Louis and Dawn Zengarling of New Orleans, both nieces of the bride. They wore yellow crystalettes gowns featuring a daisy print with ruffled collars and hemlines, daisy headbands, and carried white wicker baskets of daisies.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother Clinton Ladner of Necaise Crossing.

Groomsmen were Cedric

Ladner, another brother, Delbert Cuevas, a nephew, both of Necaise Crossing; Terry Peterson of Gulfport, a nephew; and Herbert Zengarling, of New Orleans, brother of the bride.

Serving as ushers were Brunus Cuevas and Bradley Peterson, the groom's nephews, of Necaise Crossing.

Following the ceremony a garden reception was held at the home of the bride, where Mrs. Zengarling received guests wearing a mint green gown with crystal pleated bertha collar, matching accessories, and a corsage of white silk camellias.

Mrs. Ladner chose a gown of deep turquoise with lace jacket in a matching color, white accessories, and a corsage of white silk gardenias.

Baskets of daisies decorated the tables in the natural setting, and large rings of lily-of-the valley floated in the pool.

The skirted bride's table held arrangements of white and yellow daisies and a five-tier wedding cake decorated with daisies and yellow roses.

Miss Lori Sallinger of Bay St. Louis kept the guest register.

For a honeymoon destination in Florida, the bride wore a white quana dress trimmed with venise lace, white accessories, and a corsage of daisies and yellow sweetheart roses.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at Bay Royale Apartments in Bay St. Louis.

Included among out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Vazquez, and relatives and friends of the groom.

The Ole Pastor Says

THE DOCTRINE OF PREDESTINATION, like the doctrines of election and foreordination, is a Bible doctrine, a divine truth and an eternal principle. Upon this immutable principle rest the eternal security of the believer in Jesus Christ.

The glorious doctrine of predestination seems to be a cause for frustration and apprehension for some. The doctrine of predestination and free moral agency, like all other Bible doctrines, are in complete harmony.

The doctrine of predestination does not say that certain individuals are forbidden to be saved; neither does it say that salvation will be imposed upon some.

The predestination of believers simply points out that the destiny of repentant believers in Jesus Christ was determined before the foundation of the world.

"According as he hath chosen us in him (in Christ) before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before him in love: having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to himself, according to the good pleasure of his will, to the praise of the glory of his grace, wherein he hath made us accepted in the beloved" (Eph. 1:4-6).

Let us remember that God's foreknowledge and his will are two different things; but they are completely and gloriously compatible. God is "not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance" (II Pet. 3:9; I Tim. 2:40).

On the other hand, his foreknowledge takes note of the melancholy fact that some will not be saved, because they will not believe on the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour.

"Blessed assurance, Jesus is mine; Oh what a foretaste of glory divine." It was ordained before the foundation of the world that all in Christ would have eternal life. "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (II Cor. 5:17).

Election is by grace; and all the redeemed are assured a part in the first resurrection (rapture) at the second coming of Christ" (John 6:37-40; I John 3:1-2).

Little wonder that the Apostle Paul declared: "What shall we say to these things (the great doctrines of predestination, justification, foreordination and election)? If God be for us, who can be against us? (Rom. 8:28-34). Look up, my friend! Have faith in God! Eph. 1:3-14; Rom. 8:28-34; 10:9-10; John 1:11-14; 3:14-17, 36; 5:24; 6:37-40. —L. S. Walker, D. D.

I Will Make You Proud You Did.

By S. Grady Thigpen

Thigpen explores the wit, philosophy of young boys

To me, the biggest show on earth is a boy about five to 10 years old. Talk to one for a few minutes and you are sure to get some real wit or maybe philosophy that will astonish you.

An exceptionally bright looking young stranger walked in and wandered around my store. I soon found out that he lived and went to school at a nearby town. He told me the name of his teacher and a lot of other information interesting to him.

To my question, "Do you make good grades?" he replied, "Not so good." Then going on to explain, he said, "The teacher won't let us study the easy pages. When she comes to an easy page she skips that and always find a hard page for the next lesson."

He made this explanation in an aggrieved tone of voice, as if he thought the teacher was not doing him right. Bending over and speaking in a low tone of voice, I asked him this question, "Does your teacher ever get on your ding-dong?"

He gave me a questioning look, then answered, "Yes." Then apparently considering the question further, he added, "But you don't call it ding-dong."

"Are there any bad boys in your room," I then asked him.

"Yes, plenty of them."

"What do they do?"

"They fight and say ugly words" went on my little friend, "and there are bad girls in my room too."

"What do the bad girls do?"

"They talk ugly and act silly."

"Do you have a girl friend?" I asked.

"No."

"Do you like fat girls or skinny girls?"

"I don't like 'em fat, and I don't like 'em skinny," he stated very positively.

A nice looking grown up young lady was standing close by, amused at the conversation. Pointing at her, I asked him, "How do you like her looks?"

Turning and taking a good look at her, he exclaimed spontaneously, "Wow!"

Seeming to get embarrassed at the laughter that followed, he turned and sauntered out.

A small boy was trudging along the dusty road by a cemetery. I stopped and asked him for directions to the home of a party I was searching for. After getting the information wanted, I asked him, "Aren't you afraid to pass this graveyard by yourself?"

"No sir, I ain't skeered to pass dis graveyard by myself," he answered, then hesitating and glancing in the direction of the cemetery, he added, "In the day time."

Characters I've known Bobby was about 10 or 11 years old. He came into possession of a shoeshine outfit and proceeded to exploit the use of it, not for his own shoes but for the 10 cents per shine.

He came around my store during the summer recess almost daily back about 1935. He was different from other boys in that he wanted only so much money and would quit when he reached that sum.

On one occasion he followed me around begging me to let him shine my shoes.

Because I liked him and wanted to get rid of him too, I let him shine my shoes.

I paid him 10 cents. I had seen him shine another pair of shoes for 10 cents just before I got my shine.

A travelling salesman was in the store when Bobby gave me my shine. When he got through giving me a good shine, this man told Bobby, "Come on and shine my shoes too."

"No," he said I've got to go.

I told him, "Why not shine this man's shoes?"

He said, "I don't need the money, I've already gotten my dime for the picture show and already have my dime for popcorn, and I don't need any more money."

He was adamant and left without earning the other dime.

A few miles out from Playaway, a young fellow about 12 or 13 years old was by the side of the road thumbing a ride into town. He got in the car. To make conversation, I asked him where he went to school. He told me. I then asked him -

"Do you have a girl friend?"

To which he answered:

"No," adding, after a little hesitation, "But there are two over at school that I like to look at." With this interesting admission, I laughed a little with him and then asked,

"How are you getting along with them, are you getting anywhere?"

He blushed, hesitated a little and then replied,

"One of them winks back at me."

Which is what I call making progress!

In a crowded small town restaurant in South Mississippi one Saturday night recently, I sat back toward the rear at a table waiting for my dinner to be served. Idly watching the people as they came and went, I noticed a typical farmer of the region walk in the front door followed by a number of children.

They walked single file just behind the row of stools at the counter until the farmer was pretty near the rear of the restaurant, by which time his wife had showed up at the rear end of the column.

A waitress came to wait on him, asking what he wanted. He turned facing the door and his lined up family and pointed with his finger counting "1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8," then pointing his finger at himself, counted one more to 9.

Turning to the waitress, he said in a voice that could be heard all over the restaurant, "Nine hamburgers."

A fat little fellow about eight or nine years of age came into my place out of the rain. I asked him where he went to school and he told me that he attended the grade school here.

I then asked him if he ever had any fights over there and he said:

"Yea, they have fights over here every day."

When asked if he ever got in any fights himself, he explained: "No, I don't ever get in fights. There is a crippled boy that can't hardly walk and the teacher won't let anybody bother him, so I stay with him all the time."

HOUSE CHECK

Now is a good time to check your house for "winter-wear and tear". A vacuum cleaner will remove accumulated dirt from the window sill. The condition of the paint on the sill should be checked - it often chips from moisture accumulation by condensation and rain. A wire brush on a small electric drill will remove such paint faster and easier than other methods.

Exterior doors-both storm doors and outside doors should be checked - often the hinges have loosened. If the screws won't tighten, they can be removed and a large wooden match stick or equivalent silver of wood put in the oversize screw hold and broken off even with the surface. Then the screws can be replaced successfully.

While tending the shrubs and flowers around a house, the bottom row of clapboards, as well as the foundation should be inspected for peeling paint or settled earth and plantings that allow water to stand, after rains, near the house. If this condition exists, top soil should be used to raise the level of soil so that rain will drain away from the foundation. Shrubs should be pruned away from woodwork, or they will cause mildew and eventual rotting.

What are Fathers made of?

A father is a thing that is forced to endure childbirth without an anesthetic.

A father is a thing that grows when it feels good... and laughs very loudly when it's scared half to death.

A father is sometimes accused of giving too much time to his job when the little ones are growing up - that's partly fear too.

Fathers are much more easily frightened than mothers.

A father never feels entirely worthy of the worship in a child's eyes.

He is never quite the hero his daughter thinks - never quite the man his son believes him to be - and this worries him, sometimes.

So he works too hard to try to smooth the rough places in the road for those of his own who will follow him.

A father is a thing that gets very angry when the first school grades are not so good as he thinks they should be.

He scolds his son - though he knows it's the teacher's fault.

A father is a thing that goes away to war, sometimes.

Fathers grow old faster than people because they, in other words, have to stand at the train station and wave good-bye to the uniform that climbs aboard. While Mothers can cry where it shows, fathers have to stand there and beam outside - and die inside.

Fathers have very stout hearts, so they have to be broken sometimes or no one would know what's inside.

Fathers are what give daughters away to other men who are not nearly good enough - so they can have grandchildren that are smarter than anybody's.

Fathers fight dragons - almost daily.

They hurry from the breakfast table - off to the arena which is sometimes called an office - or a shop - or a plant.

There, with calloused, practiced hands, they tackle the dragon with three heads - weariness, work and monotony. They never quite win the fight but they never give up. Knights in shining armor, or fathers in shiny trousers - there is little difference as they march away to every work day.

Fathers make bets with insurance companies about who'll live the longest.

Though they know the odds, they keep right on betting.

Even as the odds get higher and higher, they keep right on betting.

More and more - One day they lose.

But fathers enjoy an earthly immortality and the bet is paid off to the part of him he leaves behind.

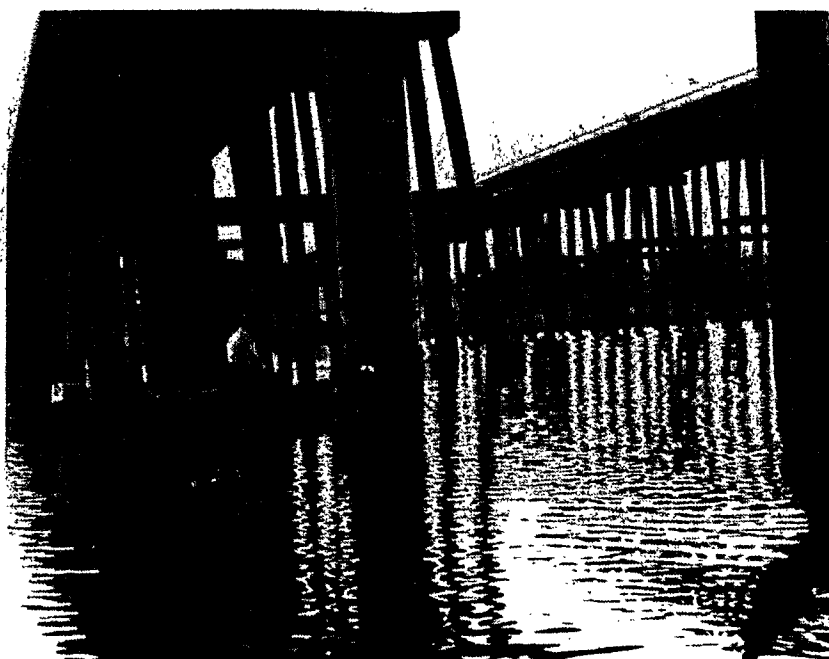

I do not know where fathers go when they die.

But I have an idea that after a good rest, wherever it is, he won't be happy unless there is work to do. He won't just sit on a cloud and wait for the girl he's loved and the children he bore.

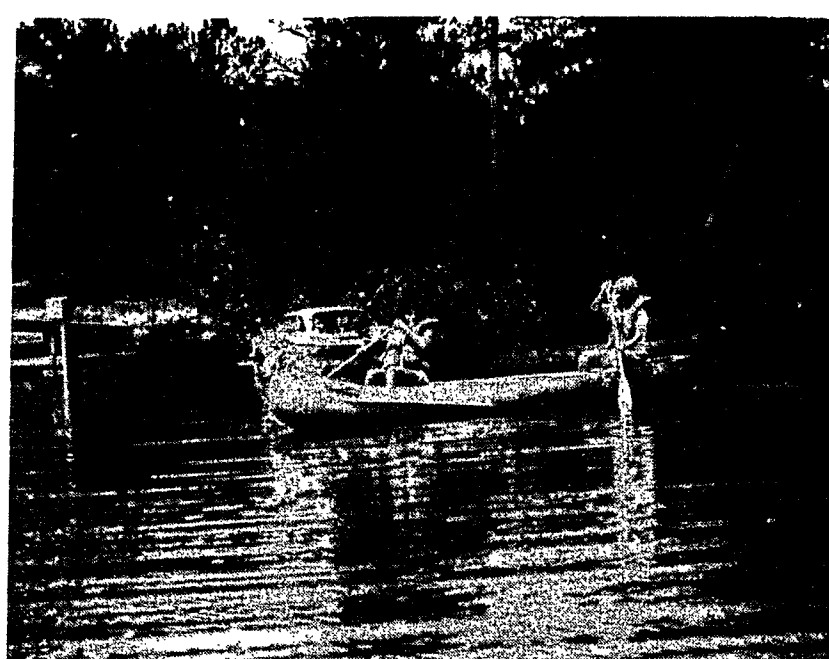

He will be very busy there too - repairing the stairs, oiling the gates, improving the streets, smoothing the way.

In memory of my father who passed away 2 years ago.

Patrol emphasizes water safety...

to arrest drinking boat operators - we can make an arrest and take them in for a test," commented Ladner.

Mississippi Water Safety patrol officers are charged with enforcing the provisions of the Mississippi Boating Act, promoting water safety among boating organizations and clubs, and setting up special rules and regulations where needed.

These officers also have general peace officers powers and may enforce any state law.

Water Safety Patrolmen attend the Mississippi Law Enforcement Academy in Jackson for training. They also attend the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve National Training Academy in Yorkshire, Va.

The Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Patrol became a commission under the administration of Governor Paul B. Johnson when the flow of boating traffic increased in the State.

Presently, Mitchell Reeves Jr. of Gulfport is director of the commission.

The Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Commission offers a Young Boatmen's correspondence course free of charge. Write Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Commission, 720 N. President St., Suite 240, Jackson, 39202.

Thomas pointed out the Coast Guard Auxiliary is making boat inspections, adding, "We highly recommend boat owners take advantage of these Coast Guard inspections - their job is the same as ours in preventing boating accidents."

A big problem, according to the water safety patrolmen is the stealing of boats and motors. They urged boat owners to take extra precautions in securing boats and motors when they are left unattended.

During the winter months when boating is slow, the patrolmen catch up on their paper work and give talks to school students and clubs throughout the state on boat safety.

Report Boating accidents

In the case of a boating accident involving collision, or other casualty involving a motorboat or vessel, while operated upon the waters of this state, the operator and owner thereof, if the collision, accident or other casualty results in death to any person, injury causing any person to remain incapacitated for a period in excess of 24 hours, or damage to property in excess of one hundred dollars ($100.00), shall file with the Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Commission, an accident report with a full description of the collision, accident, or other casualty, including such other information as is required under the provisions of the Boating Act.

A "boating accident" includes, but is not limited to capsizing, collision, foundering, flooding, fire, explosion and the disappearance of a vessel other than by theft.

Whenever death results from a boating accident, a written report shall be submitted within forty-eight (48) hours.

For every other reportable boating accident a written report shall be submitted within five (5) days after such accident by the operator(s) of the boat (s).

The written report required herein shall be made in quadruplicate to the Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Commission.

It shall be the duty of the operator of any vessel involved in a boating accident to remain at the scene of such accident until he has rendered all necessary aid and assistance, including the carrying or the making of arrangements for the carrying of any person involved in such accident to a physician, surgeon, or hospital for medical, surgical or hospital treatment, if necessary, or if such carrying is requested by such injured person, and it is the further duty of the operator of any vessel involved in a boating accident required to be re-reported under this act to report the same as herein provided.

Accident report forms can be obtained at the county tax collector's office and most places where boats are normally used, such as marinas, fishing camps, Lake Managers, Water Patrolmen, or by writing or calling the Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Commission.

The submission of this report is VERY IMPORTANT and is required under penalty of law.

LOST CREDIT CARDS

Q - I recently lost my credit cards. Even though I reported this to the companies, can they still hold me liable if someone else uses them?

A - The Truth in Lending Law protects you against unauthorized use of your credit card. In the event your credit card is lost or stolen, the maximum amount you have to pay for charges made by someone else is $50.

In order for the card issuer to hold you liable for even that amount, the unauthorized use must have occurred before you notify the card issuer that your card is lost or stolen. You are not liable for any unauthorized use occurring after you notify the card issuer.

A card issuer also cannot hold you liable for any unauthorized use unless:

-The credit card was one you had requested or used.

-The card issuer has provided some means, such as a signature panel or photograph on the card, to identify the user as the person authorized to use the card.

-The card issuer has notified you of your potential $50 liability.

-The card issuer has provided you with a form to use in notifying him of loss or theft of your card.

The law also prohibits card issuers from sending you a credit card unless you requested or applied for it. However, a card issuer may send you, without your request, a new card renewing one you requested or used previously.

should be taken into consideration concerning these intersections. Waveland Avenue and Nicholson Avenue are the only two streets in Waveland which connect with both U.S. Highway 90 and Beach Boulevard. Because of this factor, these two streets are the main traffic arteries for the city. The largest shopping center in the county is located at the corner of Waveland Avenue and Highway 90. Thousands of cars daily turn at this intersection going to and from the shopping center. Both intersections carry a great deal of traffic destined for Interstate 10. The intersection of Nicholson Avenue and Highway 90 handles all the traffic which leaves Interstate 10 at the Kiln exit.

"Probably the single most important factor concerning these two intersections is the traffic which is headed for Buccaneer State Park. In 1977, a total of 393,374 vehicles visited the park. A large number of these vehicles are campers and visitors who are not familiar with the area. Traffic signals would be very beneficial to these people and help them reach their destination with more safety.

"The daily traffic flow for Highway 90 in 1975 was 15,203. It increased to 15,840 in 1976 and even though traffic counts are not yet available for 1977, they will be much higher. In the past three years there has been a total of 47 accidents at these two intersections resulting in 18 injuries and 1 fatality.

"It is important to remember that both intersections are handling a heavy load of traffic and the vehicles traveling on Highway 90 are moving at high speeds. It would seem in the best interest of everyone concerned to supply the turn signals at both intersections."

Accidents. . .

accidents resulted in 12 injuries on county roads with no fatalities that year.

"While we did have one death on county roads in 1975, there were only 68 accidents all year with only 12 injuries...we have almost reached that figure already in 1978 and we're not even half-way through the period," Sheriff Ladner pointed out.

In addition, the Mississippi Highway Patrol, also alarmed about accident rates on Mississippi highways so far this year, has also issued warnings on stepped-up traffic enforcement.

"If every driver in Mississippi would concentrate on getting from one point to another in an automobile without having an accident, violating a traffic law, having a delay in the schedule, without abusing his vehicle or without being discourteous to fellow drivers, all the needless and avoidable accidents would not even exist," said Inspector George Saxon of Gulfport, the Highway Patrol's ranking officer in Hancock County.

"Courtesy behind the wheel is the most important of all because the other rules of safe driving will fall into place if courtesy is extended," Saxon noted.

First district win

Ladner lights fire for Waveland Legion

Catcher Timmy Ladner poled a three run homer in the first to set in motion Waveland American Legion's first district win, 11-9, over Long Beach Wednesday in Long Beach.

Ladner, Kelly Geroux, and Robbie Cox combined for three hits each, plating 10 RBI's. Cox hit a solo home run in the sixth inning for Waveland's final score.

Wayne Best, who also had two hits for the winners, pitched for Waveland, going the distance for ten strike-outs while giving up seven hits and walking 13.

Best retired Long Beach in order in the bottom of the ninth to preserve the win.

Ladner belted a 3-2 pitch over the left field fence to score four runs in the top of the first to give Waveland momentum. Keith Courtney led off with an infield hit.

While Courtney was stealing, Geroux lined a double up against the right center field fence; Cox walked, and Ladner's homer sent all three across the plate.

Waveland took two outs before coming alive in the second as Courtney walked and stole second, Geroux reached base on an error, and Cox singled to score Courtney. Ladner bounced one over the short-stops head to drive in two more runs.

In the fourth inning, Waveland tallied three runs. Geroux started with a single followed by Cox with a single. Ladner doubled home two runs then scored from third on a ground out by Cary Meltzer.

A solo homer by Cox topped off Waveland's scoring in the sixth.

Best pitched a no hitter for four innings even though Long Beach scored two runs in the third on an error. Long Beach scored in the fifth on an RBI single by Greg Guin.

Three hits and two errors allowed Long Beach to rack up four runs in the sixth as Mike Odenwald plated two runs on a single. The other two came home on a single by Greg Guin and a double by Mark Ross. Long Beach scored two runs in the eighth on one hit and two errors.

Odenwald and Guin led hitting for Long Beach with two hits apiece. Doug Beatty went the distance, taking the loss.

Waveland, 3-5 overall and 1-3 in district, will play a double-header Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in Biloxi. Long Beach is 1-2 in district play.

Hobby's drive clinches first for Miller's

by SHARON WALLS

With a hard drive hugging the first base line, Mike Hobby knocked in three runs in the bottom of the seventh to bring Miller's Hardware from behind to defeat the Red Machine, 12-11, and claim first place in the Men's City Softball League Thursday at Commerce Field.

The two teams battled it out for six innings, with each team knocking several home runs. For Ollie's Red Machine, Robert Henry and Myron Labat knocked a homer apiece while Elmo Jacobs clubbed three.

For Miller's Curtis hit two home runs in a row. Gary Blaize also knocked out two.

The Red Machine took the lead in the top of the seventh with a home run over the centerfield fence by Jacobs, which also scored Russell Fairconnetue.

Miller's, down by two when they came to bat, got Tommy Hayes on base on a single and Mike Faye on a walk. Hobby's line drive scored three runners for the win, and a first place berth.

Coach Ernie Ainsworth's boys are undefeated in the first half of the Men's City Softball season, while the Red Machine is in second place.

OPENING SCORE - Melvin Barnes put American Legion on the board in bottom of the first in Babe Ruth play-off for first place between Legion and Rotary International Thursday at Tiger Field.

BABE RUTH BASEBALL

By Mark McCarthy

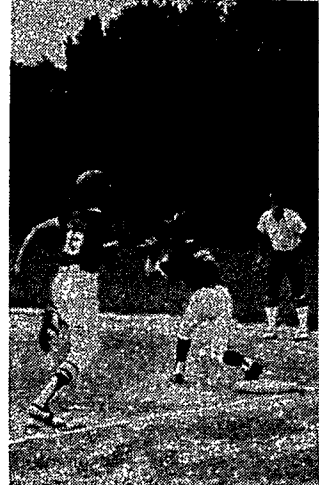

By MARK MCCARTHY American Legion moved one step closer to a third consecutive Babe Ruth Baseball championship with an impressive 13-5 victory over Rotary Club Thursday in a playoff game at Tiger Field. Legion erupted for nine runs in the fifth, four coming on a Kelly Geroux grand-slam homer.

For Geroux, it was his second bases-loaded blast, both off Rotary's losing pitcher Perre Cabell, with the initial shot coming in a regular-season contest just four days earlier.

Davis Strong went the distance for the win, allowing a single earned run as he fanned nine.

Melvin Barnes knocked out four hits, while Geroux, Strong, and Dennis Rhodes connected for two apiece to lead Legion's 14-hit barrage. Singles by Joe Gex, Rowe Crowder, Mike Fitzgerald, and Ricky Johnson were all Rotary could muster against Legion. They also had problems on defense, as seven errors sent in seven unearned runs.

American Legion, under the direction of manager Bill Breland and coaches Stackey Strong and Ron Hollifield, has now earned the right to face the winner of the season's second half of play. That action starts today, with Coast Electric vs. Rotary at 5 p.m., followed by American Legion vs. Dixie Realty.

Manieri claims lack of coach nixed team

Lack of a coach prevented Bay St. Louis from forming a Babe Ruth senior baseball team, according to Mrs. Bobbie Manieri, president of the local Babe Ruth 11to15 year-old League.

"We would have been happy to join the senior league if we had had a coach," explained Manieri, "but I was unable to find one and without a coach, my hands are tied."

Wayne Peterson, president of the newly formed seniors league, contacted Manieri in May about forming a team and joining the district.

"I said we would be glad to if we could get a team and find a coach," she said.

"But first we had to find a coach, then a sponsor, then form the team. When we could not find a coach, we did not go further with plans to establish a team," he added.

"I never told Peterson I had a coach or a team," Manieri continued.

Bay St. Louis was a member of the Babe Ruth seniors three years ago, sponsored by Diamondhead. Since that time, the American Legion team for 16-to-18-year olds has provided summer baseball activities for the age group.

Manieri said she does not know where uniforms belonging to the team are, but that these uniforms have not been recovered for a proposed new team.

In order to receive a franchise from the national Babe Ruth organization, a group must have at least four teams. The newly formed district is composed of Pass Christian, Long Beach, Harrison Central, and, supposedly, Bay St. Louis.

The teams are scheduled for twelve matches, playing each other three times. District play got underway Sunday with a second match Tuesday.

Bay, scheduled for both games, was recorded as forfeiting the contests.

"We understood that Mrs. Manieri had a team, but no coach," explained John Gallagher, player representative for the district. "We believed we were all set to play ball when lack of a coach became a problem."

"We could possibly get enough boys together for a team, if we found a coach," Manieri said. "But they wouldn't have had a chance to practice or anything."

"They would be playing under a handicap, having started the season late."

Horse Club names officers for 1978-79

The Hancock County Riding Club this week elected officers for the 1978-79 year.

Pat Pavre was elected president, Myra Bennett, vice president, Liz Bennett, secretary, and Connie Cobb, treasurer.

Others named to serve were: Nancy Russ, American Quarter Horse Association Secretary; J.G. Russ, custodian; and Jake Jacob, publicity.

Diamondhead doubles launch Tennis Week

Men's and women's doubles tournaments kicked off National Tennis Week, set June 17-23, at Diamondhead. The week will culminate with the Lipton Mixed Doubles tournament, June 24-25.

Local amateurs, 18 or older, are eligible for the doubles contests which began Saturday as the first event in the week. Finals will be played Sunday afternoon with the matches open to spectators without charge.

A free clinic, open to players of all abilities, is set for Monday, June 19, from 10 a.m. until noon.

The Lipton Amateur Mixed Doubles Championship on the local level caps off the week June 24-25.

Winners of the tourney will advance to the state level competition at Ocean Springs, then to the Gulf States Regional which will be played at Diamondhead in July.

In September, the Mixed Doubles Finals and the ATP World Professional Doubles Championship will be held at the Woodlands Inn and Country Club, Woodlands, Texas.

National Tennis Week, sponsored by Lipton Iced Tea and conducted by "Tennis" magazine, is the largest participant event in the history of the sport.

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER REPORT

WEATHER SUMMARY

(National Weather Service): The week was one of general cool conditions in the north early in the week with rains some heavy in the south during the latter part. Temperatures in the north and Delta sections were generally three to five degrees below normal for the entire week with the coolest reading in the state at Oxford on the 4th, a cool 55.

Temperatures in central, southeast and coastal sections were two to three degrees below normal for the most part.

Stations right on the coast had readings near normal. Rains in the north and central sections occurred on one to four days of the week with amounts quite variable as most rains were of the showery type.

Charleston in the upper delta recorded 3.67 for the week while Scott in the same area received only .17 inch. Most rains in the state were in the two to 3.5 inch range, the heaviest occurring in the south on Thursday the 4th.

Poplarville recorded a whopping 6.23 on the fourth and had 9.08 for the week for the highest amount.

Biloxi on the coast got rain each day and amounts were mostly 1/4 to 1/2 inch. Over the weekend the pattern of daytime showers, mostly on the coast, continued.

Activity was more sparse on Saturday and began earlier in coastal sections on Sunday. Showers and thundershowers moved inland and affected much of the southern 2/3rds of the state by Sunday afternoon.

Temperatures continued mild with most highs in the upper 80s and lows in the 60s. Reporting stations recorded generally less than 1-10th inch for the weekend.

CROP SUMMARY: Rain slowed planting and hampered weed control in row crops. Many fields that were prepared for planting earlier are getting weedy and will require additional tilling before planting.

Soil moisture supplies were surplus to excessive. An average of two days was suitable for fieldwork compared to 4.3 days last week and 6.2 days for the same week last year.

Soybean planting was 67 percent complete, equal to the average for the date, but behind last year's 73 percent. About 45 percent of the acreage was up to a stand compared to 55 percent last year. The crop was in good condition. The cotton acreage was five percent squaring compared to 37 percent last year and the average of 10 percent. The crop was in fair condition. The rice acreage was in mostly good condition. Corn was eight percent silked compared to 15 percent last year and was in good condition.

Winter wheat was 86 percent ripe. About 26 percent of the acreage was harvested compared to 87 percent last year and the average of 48 percent.

Sorghums were 65 percent planted compared to 74 percent last year and the average of 68 percent.

Sweetpotatoes were 75 percent planted compared to 87 percent last year and the average of 70 percent.

Peaches were planted compared to 15 percent last year and the average of 9 percent. The crop was in fair condition.

Irish potatoes were 42 percent harvested compared to 38 percent last year and the average of 32 percent.

Cucumbers were 12 percent harvested compared to 19 percent last year.

Pastures were in good condition.

"COMMENTS"

QUITMAN CO. "Too much water."

DE SOTO CO. "Rain all week. Very wet. Grass and weeds growing in both cotton and soybean fields."

LEE CO. "Getting excessive rain. Fields disked earlier this year have become infested with weeds and are having to be retilled prior to planting."

LEFLORE CO. "Weed control is severe because of wet field conditions. Wet conditions are also hampering the remaining soybeans to be planted."

NEWTON CO. "Rain stopped all farm work. Rained every day in part of the county. Lot of hay got wet."

STATE PRODUCTION

Production of milk in Mississippi during May is estimated at 79 million pounds, the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced today. This is one percent below a year earlier.

There were 108,000 milk cows on farms during the month, three percent below a year earlier. Milk production per cow averaged 730 pounds, 10 pounds above May 1977.

4-H CONGRESS

Approximately 1,300 4-H members and volunteers 4-H adult leaders from throughout the State will convene July 13-15 at Mississippi State University for the 1978 State 4-H Congress.

These 4-H'ers are among the most outstanding youth in the state. While at Congress, they demonstrate the result of their practical learning experiences in 4-H by participating in more than 50 different contests.

The nomination of state 4-H officers will be highlight of Congress. These 4-H'ers on the state level represent 4-H members in Mississippi at various 4-H and other activities.

Their primary responsibility is to assist the state 4-H youth development staff in designing programs to meet the educational needs of all youth.

Work, fellowship and fun will be packed into the two days.

Listed below are 4-H members attending from Hancock County and their contests.

Carlos Cuevas and Ray Spiers - Plant Pathology.
Kim Ladner, Kent Ladner and Lonnie Spiers - Poultry.

CHICKENS

BROILER-TYPE

Hatcheries in the State set 6,447,000 eggs for broiler chicks during the week ending June 10, 1978, slightly above the previous week and five percent above the 6,160,000 set the corresponding week a year ago.

There were 5,974,000 broiler chicks placed on Mississippi farms during the week ending June 10, 1978, one percent below the previous week but five percent above the 5,693,000 placed the corresponding week a year ago.

Cumulative placements for 1978 are 130,261,000 broiler chicks, six percent above a year earlier.

EGG-TYPE

Hatcheries in the State set 381,000 eggs for egg-type chicks during the week ending June 10, 1978, 6 percent below the previous week but 28 percent above the 298,000 set during the comparable week a year ago. Hatch of egg-type chicks was 294,000, four percent above the previous week and 18 percent above the 250,000 hatched during the comparable week a year ago.

In the five states that accounted for about 25 percent of the hatch of all egg-type chicks in the U.S. in 1977, setting during the week ending June 10, 1978, were down six percent but hatchings were up 10 percent from a year ago.

Georgia agricultural interests plan huge outdoor farm show

Hancock County farmers are invited by the University of Georgia, U.S. Department of Agriculture and Georgia's Cooperative Extension Service to a 'Sunbelt Agricultural Exposition' in October.

Included among features of the exposition will be a 1,600-acre demonstration farm where the country's major harvesting equipment manufacturers will display their products.

Some 100,000 farmers from throughout the country are expected to attend the exposition.

Jack Lewis, a long-time Colquitt County, Georgia, resident is the contract farmer for the exposition which will be located south of Moultrie on a former World War II Air Corps training field.

Lewis, who rents this 1,600-acre facility from the city, will be following the advice of Georgia Extension Service specialists and Coastal Plain Experiment Station researchers to produce crops for the agricultural educational bonanza this fall.

However, it hasn't been easy. Since he's using experts' recommendations for correct soil fertility, planting rates, and chemical treatments, Lewis has tolerated numerous interruptions and situations which would try most farmers' patience.

The major long range problem confronting Lewis and his team of consultants is controlling crop growth to coordinate harvest with the October 10-12 exposition dates.

Planting delays caused by cool nights and frequent spring rains, have been the most recent stumbling block. Numerous other problems have arisen which most farmers don't normally encounter. Isolated cable-stakes, pieces of metal, and concrete hunks—all military base remnants where burial was cheaper than transportation elsewhere—have been uncovered during land tillage. While trees, docks, and buried during base construction, have been dug into on occasion.

"At times it's been difficult," says Lewis. "But everything has worked out reasonably well and the fields look real good now."

The 400 acres he will farm for the Expo are being planted in corn, soybeans, cotton and peanuts. A 40-acre site has been designated for special hay baling demonstrations.

Lewis' compensation will be all the crops harvested, plus knowing his endeavors will contribute immensely to the education of his fellow farmers.

Although a large portion of the material for the huge farm show was furnished through corporate product grants, Lewis has footed the bill for other related projects.

He provided equipment and labor for installing 20,000 feet of subsurface drain tile and spent another tidy sum in land leveling. The contractual agreement calls for him supplying all fuel, equipment and labor necessary to raise the crop. Any farmer knows these costs, alone, can be enormous at present prices.

Sunbelt site manager Don Nicholson estimates Lewis will invest as much as the average farmer regardless of the grant factor.

"He has been able to obtain fertilizer at cost," says Nicholson. "This has helped keep his investment within reason. But analyses have called for extra nutrients—in most cases double the normal rate—which he's supplied to upgrade the soil for show purposes. Once acceptable fertility is attained, we can return to normal levels."

Lewis is no stranger to these parts. The 58-year-old south Georgian grew up here, farming this land with a mule at one time.

He recently dug into a pile of buried brick and after getting his bearings, realized they were relics of his old homeplace which his father was forced to sell in 1938 to make way for the new base.

Some 40 years later, he vividly recollects one of the big problems associated with his early mule farming days near the base while flight operations were in process.

"It was real hard to stop a mule when planes were taking off or landing nearby," he recalls. "I'd holler 'Whoa mule—Whoa!' as loud as I could. But that mule couldn't hear and kept right on plowing. At times it was pretty darned frustrating. Those days are long gone, thank goodness."

Ten short years ago, Lewis' son, Gary, tilled a 30-acre tract with a diesel powered tractor in three hours—the same filed the elder Lewis worked with a mule nearly a half century earlier while staying out of school an entire winter.

"Gary did a lot better job in three hours than I did in three months," quips Lewis. "Mechanization has made the big difference in farming."

In a few months that big difference will be widely evident here, also. Dozens of new machines will be performing a variety of tasks daily for thousands of onlookers.

There won't be any mules around then. But about his former homeplace Jack Lewis will see a bunch of changes. And perhaps he'll recall even more near forgotten memories.

FIGHT SOYBEAN PESTS

Mississippi soybean growers are ready to battle insects again this year. Extensive insect problems similar to last year's are not expected, but producers need to provide control in area where conditions are favorable for insects.

You should allow beneficial insects to remain in fields and multiply until the number of damaging pests increases. The beneficial insects will control the insect that attack soybeans. Also, many naturally occurring insect diseases help keep soybean insects under control.

HARVEST ON TIME

Harvest your garden vegetables as soon as the crop matures for best quality. Warm weather causes vegetable quality to deteriorate rapidly. Leafy greens and snap beans become tough and fibrous. English peas lose their sweetness. Row crops, such as beets and turnips, become tough. To prevent this loss of quality, harvest on time.

HOG MANAGEMENT

A good health management program for hogs can reduce trouble and financial loss for swine producers. Keeping buildings and equipment used in hog production clean is important because filth can harbor many diseases and parasites. You should clean and disinfect buildings and equipment regularly, especially the farrowing house.

Isolate sick animals immediately. Disinfect boots and soiled clothing before returning to regular herd quarters after caring for sick animals. When disposing of dead animals, burn the carcass or cover it with quicklime and bury it under at least three feet of soil.

WEED CONTROL

Broadleaf weeds take up space, use fertilizer and moisture, and are low quality grazing. Cattleman cannot allow these pests to continue to increase in pastures. You should spray grass pastures with 2,4-D, dicamba or a combination of these materials. For cypressweed and horsenettle, a herbicide containing dicamba will be needed. Good coverage is important; use 10 to 20 gallons of spray mix per acre.

GARDEN INSECTS

Don't let bugs harvest your garden crops. You should examine your garden each week to keep ahead of garden insect pests. If you find harmful insects, use an insecticide recommended for the kind of insect you have. When using insecticides, check labels and apply materials only to those vegetable crops listed.

METV airs market info

Mon.-Fri.

Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture is presenting the latest livestock market information on Mississippi Educational TV.

Joe McClure, livestock market news supervisor, conducts one-minute broadcast on the statewide METV at 10 a.m.

The report includes a summary of the day's opening St. Louis Hog Market followed by a synopsis of the previous day's activity from the Mississippi Livestock Auctions, slaughter cattle from the Texas Panhandle, Midwest carlot beef trade, closing prices on the current trading months from the Chicago Mercantile Exchange and federal inspected slaughter of cattle and hogs.

UNITED STATES

May milk production totaled 11.2 billion pounds, down one percent from May 1977. Average production per cow was 1032 pounds, three pounds less than a year earlier but 26 pounds more than May 1976. Milk cows were estimated at 10.9 million head during May, off one percent from last year.

Accumulated production for the first 5 months of 1978 was down slightly from last year, but was two percent above the same period in 1976.

The May milk-feed price ratio was 1.60, down from 1.62 in April. The decline in the ratio from last month was due to lower milk prices.

Applications for economic injury loans will be accepted through October 3, 1978.

Farmers and ranchers in South Mississippi, who were victims of the drought of 1977, may apply for SBA disaster loans at the Biloxi SBA office in the Gulf National Life Insurance Building.

Applications for low interest rate loans for physical crop damage caused by the drought of 1977 will be received through July 3, 1978, according to Charles L. Ferguson, manager of the Biloxi Small Business Administration Office.

The May 15, 1978 Index of Prices Received by Mississippi farmers for all commodities increased six points (three percent) from the previous month's index, the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced today. The index was 238 percent of its January-December 1967 average for the month ended May 15, 1978. The current index is 27 points (10 percent) below the May 15, 1977 average.

A tour of the experiment station will follow lunch on the grounds.

Joining Lancaster as officers of the ASA Mississippi Section are Ted Cheshire, district manager of Louisiana Seed Co. of Jackson, first vice president; Dempsey M. Broadhead, agronomist for the U.S. Sugar Crops Field Station in Meridian, second vice president; and Dr. Roy G. Creech, head of the Agronomy Department at MSU, secretary-treasurer.

SHEDDING HAIR

One of the more common questions asked of a veterinarian is "why does my dog or cat shed so much?"

The answer is that pets and other animals shed hair in response to certain factors in their environment, primarily temperature changes and the amount of light they're exposed to.

When cats and dogs were basically outdoor animals, they shed twice a year.

In the spring, the heavy winter hair dropped out to make way for a lighter summer coat. In fall, this light coat made way for a coarser, thicker winter coat. The change was completed in three to four weeks.

For pets that live indoors, shedding becomes a year-round activity. Lack of exercise, indoor heating and the extra hours of artificial daylight combine to produce a steady, sometimes annoying hair loss.

Shedding is a natural process. There is little you can do to control it except to keep your pet well-groomed. Grooming equipment varies according to the type of coat your pet has. A fine comb is good for short-haired dogs. A comb with widely-spaced teeth is better for long-haired breeds.

You also need a brush, one with short bristles if you have a short or medium-haired dog and longer bristles for a long-haired dog.

Basic grooming work is done with the comb. It helps to remove loose hair, small twigs and other debris, and is useful in unraveling knots and snags. When the pet is thoroughly combed, you are ready to use the brush.

Brushing should supplement, but not replace, combing since brush bristles often do not reach the undercoat on long-haired pets.

For a smooth and fluffy coat, brush in the direction you want the hair to lie.

Proper cat grooming is somewhat different. A long-haired cat is groomed primarily with the brush and finished with the comb to fluff the fur.

Short-haired cats need only a short brushing, followed by gentle petting. The oil from your own skin will smooth the fur and add to the coat's sheen.

Despite your good intentions, your pet may refuse to cooperate with grooming.

If possible, start grooming your pet while it is young to avoid irksome obedience problems later.

You can teach an older pet to tolerate grooming by doing only a small section at a time and being careful not to pull the skin.

In the beginning you may need a friend to restrain the pet if it persists in wriggling away.

Shedding is routine, but excessive hair loss can be the symptom of an underlying problem. Excessive bathing with strong soap dries the skin and the hair and will cause abnormal shedding.

Dogs also lose hair from thyroid gland problems, allergies and high fevers.

Some pregnant females, particularly long-haired pets, lose hair when they are fed inadequate diets following delivery of their offspring.

THE MUMMY OF RAMOSE

By SHIRLEY GLUBOK AND ALFRED TAMARIAN

for ages 10-14. $8.95.

Published 1978 by Harper Junior Books.

Counselor to two famed Pharaohs, Ramose lived in Thebes deep in southern Egypt during the 18th Dynasty, at the height of Egypt's power.

In recreating his last day, mummification, and funeral rites, "The Mummy of Ramose" presents a broad picture of Egyptian art, politics, religious beliefs, and customs and should have a special appeal for Americans in view of the exhibition of Tutankhamun's tomb relics which is now touring the United States.

As dawn breaks Ramose is carried in his litter toward the tomb he has had cut deep in the desert cliffs on the west bank of the Nile, where he performs ceremonies in memory of his wife and supervises the sculpting of the rich reliefs which cover its walls.

In his palace a scribe illustrates an elaborate copy of "The Book of the Dead," full of instructions for Ramose's soul in the afterlife.

That night Ramose entertains friends, and conversation turns, as usual, to Faulkner.

Almost 200 students, teachers and enthusiasts of William Faulkner will come to Oxford July 30-Aug. 4 to learn more about the author's work and explore the area where he lived, during The University of Mississippi's fifth annual conference on Faulkner and his fictional Yoknapatawpha County.

This year's conference has the theme "Faulkner, Modernism and Film," and will feature lectures, panel discussions, seminars, films and guided tours of the Oxford area, which is considered a model for the setting of many Faulkner novels. Conference participants will include outstanding Faulknerian scholars and critics, local townspeople and members of the Faulkner family.

Shirley Glubok and Alfred Tamarin, a husband-and-wife team known for their books on art and history, most recently wrote "Olympic Games in Ancient Greece." Ms. Glubok's more than 30 books include "Art and Archeology" and her "The Art Of..." series.

Mr. Tamarin is a photographer as well as an author. Many of the photographs in this book are by the Tamarins.

Pinetree...

fusiform rust in loblollies, and also to determine the resistibility in slash pines.

"We're doing severe testing," Dr. Bey said in reference to extensive genetic studies of pines at the lab, "but it's a very slow procedure - like trying to cure the common cold - some are susceptible, others resist it."

Forty-five different pines, currently being used in two experimental procedures at the lab, are an example of the "severe testing" to which Bey referred.

"We are limited when working with slash pines," he pointed out, "for even though they are the most abundant, they are also the most susceptible to disease."

"When we apply fusiform spores to a slash pine in the lab, we can't be sure it will live thru the testing," he explained.

Death of pines from the disease is caused from three main factors:

1. A wet, moist climate which enhances spore production.
2. Proximity of oak and pine trees.
3. Abundant new growth, which is most vulnerable to rust spores.

"The real cause of the outbreak of rust has been man's tampering with mother nature," Walkinshaw commented.

"Pines and oaks have existed in harmony for years...but new problems are emerging since the forests have been rearranged by man," the scientist feels.

Annual rates of increase for the disease is now two to three percent per year, forestry officials said, with slash pines being the most heavily damaged. A new problem for many residents, fusiform rust has in fact been around "a long time." Records of its existence date back to the 1830's Walkinshaw said, adding the disease was not a serious problem for Southern states until 1926.

By 1938, the Forestry Department's first regional survey showed that 20 to 50 percent of South Mississippi pine trees were infected - the highest incidence on record.

Homeowners are now noticing the rise because more and more are growing pines on residential sites, County Agent Smith said.

Smith and the forestry officials said there are two preventative measures which can be taken to control spread of the disease:

"If the limb is infected...cut it off to prevent spreading to the main stem where it would eventually kill the tree.

"If the tree's main stem is already infected...harvest it for pulpwood before it blows over."

Diseased trees, hollowed by deterioration of inner bark, eventually will fall under the pressure of high winds, the experts noted.

"On a total of 3,600 acres of experimental forests in Gulfport, we are striving to find a method of control," Bey said.

In the meantime, Bey stressed, tree growers and home owners should avoid overcrowding their acreage and wanton and unnecessary cutting of trees.

SLASH PINES - These three-year-old slash pines, the most common pine variety found in Hancock County, are part of an experiment now being conducted to control the occurrence of fatal galls in pines. These galls develop from a disease which attacks pines in their first two years of growth. The disease, fusiform rust, is the number one killer of the valuable Hancock County's pulpwoods. DISEASE LABORATORY - Located at the Harrison Experimental Forestry office in Gulfport, this lab enables scientists to provide research for the dangerous Southern pine tree disease, fusiform rust. Caused from a fungus originating on oak leaves, the disease first appears as a rusty residue on young pines. (Staff photo - Dee Kachler)

SPORE BREEDING - These ovens, located at U.S. Department of Agriculture's Harrison Experimental Forestry offices in Gulfport, are used by laboratory pathologists to breed fusiform spores which cause a fatal swelling to southern pine trees. (Staff photo - Dee Kachler)

DISEASE SPORES - These hair-like spores, located on an oak leaf, are the main cause of death to valuable Hancock County pulpwood. Carried through the air during warm months, these rust colored spores produce a fungus disease, fusiform rust, which acts like a cancer in the interior of pines.

Obituaries

PHILIP PARISH

Private funeral services for Philip Henry Parish were Saturday at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home Chapel in Bay St. Louis, followed by burial in Garden of Memory Cemetery.

Mr. Parish, 66, a retired seaman and a native of New Orleans, died Wednesday June 14, 1978, at his residence, 216 Favre St. in Waveland. He was a Catholic.

Survivors include a son, Wayne Parish of Thibodaux, La., a daughter, Mrs. Cora Parish Grunz of New Orleans; two brothers, Louis Parish of New Orleans and Robert Parish of Seattle, Wash.; two sisters, Mrs. Inez Lejeune and Mrs. Thelma Brant, both of New Orleans; and five grandchildren.

MRS. AZALINE LADNER - Mrs. Azaline Ladner, 73, wife of Monroe Ladner and a lifelong resident of Pass Christian, died Wednesday, June 14, 1978. The funeral was Saturday at White Cypress Catholic Church with burial in the Panton Sand Hill Cemetery in Hancock County.

She was born in Hancock County and was a member of White Cypress Catholic Church.

In addition to her husband and son, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Wilma Cuevas and Mrs. Elsie Necaise; four half-sisters, Mrs. Levenia Ladner, Mrs. Rozena Hoda, Mrs. Legenia Ladner and Mrs. Levella Necaise; a half-brother, Wesley Ladner, all of Pass Christian; 21 grandchildren; and 17 great-grandchildren.

FULL GOSPEL CHARISMATIC PRAYER MEETINGS

Lakeshore Full Gospel Church

Location: Lakeshore Rd., Old Methodist Church.

Tuesday & Saturday 7:30 P.M.

Watch for signs.

EVERYONE INVITED

COME EXPECTING A MIRACLE

Beloved, have you ever been invited to a wedding and for some reason didn't want to go? Then again maybe you cast the invitation aside thinking lightly about it.

Heaven has sent out wedding invitations to all mankind, both beggar and King. It reads: "Whosoever will come, you are cordially invited by GOD ALMIGHTY, the Creator of the Universe, to be in the Wedding of His only begotten Son, JESUS CHRIST, to take place in the near future. The wedding will take place in the Ballroom of Heaven, in the presence of Arch-Angels, Cherubims and Seraphims. Music will be furnished by the Angelic Heavenly Host of over 100,000,000 Angels.

The Bride will be Christians of all ages. Those who have given their all to Him while here on earth.

You don't have to be someone important to receive a wedding invitation from Heaven. Remember it reads, "Whosoever will come." Isaiah 55:1-7.

Handy makes 24 hr. banking easy.

Unless you've met Handy, you don't really know how easy 24-hour banking can be.

When you put your personal HandyCard in the slot in any of Hancock Bank's new 24-hour tellers, Handy takes over.

He's the little man who handles everything. He has a special electronic display panel board and he'll spell out exactly what to do in simple, step-by-step instructions. It's easy as pie.

Hancock Bank's HandyBank does more than any other 24-hour teller around. With more locations around, too.

More services in more places. Only with HandyBank. Meet Handy today.

Brief

ENROLLMENT SEMINAR
Two Coast educators, Dr. Ray Bishop, assistant superintendent of Gulfport Schools and Dr. Talmadge Mauldin, education specialist at Keesler, will serve as facilitators for the Seminar on Declining Enrollment in New York this week, according to Dr. Bill Lee program director. The seminar is co-ordinated by the University of Southern Mississippi.

OPERA WILL EXPAND
Opera-South, a Jackson State University-Utica Junior College sponsored program which gives students a chance to work with professional companies, has announced plans to expand its season by adding a new summer production which will begin in July, 1979. Opera-South president Estus Smith announced. Local artists, in addition to the professional singers employed by the opera, will also have an invitation to participate. Dates for the trials have not yet been announced.
